Circuit Court.

Judge John E. Cooper who was really not able to occupy the bench at all during the short term of Circuit Court was broken down on Friday evening as to give his friends grave cause for alarm. Saturday he was better but not able to take his place on the bench and Mr. M. S. Tyler was elected Special Judge. The cases of three negro boys, Will Johnson, John Bondurant and Wes. Chenault, charged with breaking into J. C. Enoch's store came up and they were tried and given three years each in the pen.

The first official act Judge Tyler was called upon to perform after he took his seat was to sign the license of of Henry Watson to practice law. Mr. Watson had been examined by Messrs Winn and Young who pronounced him entitled to license. So Henry is a full fledged lawyer and ready to take any and all cases entrusted to him.

In an interview, W. H. Griffin, late chairman of the Republican State Central Committee of Colorado, said Colorado would give its vote to whatever party nominates a free-silver candidate.

A SHOOTING.

Artie Fitzpatrick Shoots and Wounds Sam Greenwood.

A VERY NARROW ESCAPE.

Sunday morning Artie Fitzpatrick shot and wounded his cousin, Sam Greenwood at W. T. Fitzpatrick's stable on Locust street.

The facts as we are able to gather them are about as follows: Some days since when W. T. Fitzpatrick left with a shipment of horses for the Norfolk market he placed his nephew Sam Greenwood in charge of his interests here. Soon after he left Artie Fitzpatrick another nephew went to his uncle W. T. Fitzpatrick's farm and drove in a steer which he proposed to sell to a butcher in town, Sam Greenwood hearing of this took the steer back to the pasture, Artie on finding he was stopped from raising money on his uncle's stock swore he would kill Greenwood on sight. Sunday morning they met in the stable

The Republican Convention.

The State Convention held by the Republicans at Louisville the past week was not the tamely harmonious affair Kentucky Republican Conventions have heretofore been. The friends of Brer Bradley and Brer McKinley were at each others throat in regular thug style. After a long wrangle it was finally agreed to give Bradley first and McKinley second instructions. This was a bitter pill for the friends of Governor Bradley to swallow but they saw it was this or worse. But the way that convention wasn't unanimously harmonious was an exceedingly pleasant sight to the on-looking Democrats.

Judge H. R. French is being pushed by his friends as a Delegate from this district to the National Democratic Convention. No better, truer, or more self-sacrificing Democrat lives in the district than is our countryman Judge H. R. French. For disinterested devotion to party he has no superior anywhere. He deserves and should receive the endorsement of the district. We hope to see Judge French given the small honor he craves.

Death of R. C. Nunneley.

On Saturday Mr. W. R. Nunneley of this city was summoned to the bedside of his father R. C. Nunneley, of Georgetown. Yesterday a message was received, stating that Mr. Nunneley had died. Mr. Nunneley was seventy-four years old and had been married fifty-one years. He leaves a wife and seven children, had been a member of the Baptist Church for many years and was an upright Christian gentleman. His death is a great loss to family, church and friends. He had many warm friends in this and Bath counties. Mrs. W. R. Nunneley and son, B. R. Nunneley, this morning to attend the funeral.

On Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, Rev. C. J. Nugent officiated at the funeral of the infant son of W. F. Nugent, late of Bath county, aged seven months.

and a quarrel ensued, Artie drawing his pistol and young Greenwood seizing a stick of stove wood.

Greenwood had no chance to strike before Fitzpatrick had his pistol leveled at his breast and he instinctively threw up his arm to ward off the bullet. Artie fired and the ball struck a cuff button and ranged along the arm held up for defense making a severe though probably not a dangerous wound. It was a narrow escape however for the young man. The wounded man was attended by Dr. Cox who soon succeeded in making him as comfortable as possible under the circumstances. Young Fitzpatrick has been losing his best for some time past to sustain his reputation for a fighter. He has been in many ugly scrapes and by one means and another has thus far escaped any serious punishment. But he seems bent on meeting his fate in spite of all his friends who do nothing.

Sam Greenwood is said to be a quiet orderly young man and received his hurt because he was endeavoring to faithfully discharge the trust his uncle had reposed in him.

White Republicans of Texas met in State Convention at Houston yesterday.

Clem Acquitted.

Chas. Clem was tried in the Circuit Court Friday on the charge of an attempted rape on the person of the eight-year-old daughter of Thos. Fuditt living near Jeffersonville this county. Young Clem was arrested some months since and placed in jail here on this charge. It was supposed the commonwealth had a strong case, but when the defense, which was ably conducted by Messrs. G. Egbert Coons and Judge B. F. Day, took the evidence in hand they managed to throw quite a different light on the matter. The accused has reason to be grateful to his lawyers for the skillful manner in which they handled a charge which is the easiest to make and the hardest to disprove of any on court the docket.

The Kids.

Several most estimable and popular widows of our town have been receiving the attention of a like number of as estimable widowers, for quite a time past, and some of our irreverent youngsters have dubbed them "the kids." The first break in this merry crowd occurred last week, when our popular and most excellent Sheriff, Wm. Stedl, led to the altar Mrs. Fannie Denton, than whom no purer woman ever became a man's help-mate. We are informed that there will tomorrow be another break in the ranks of "the kids," as two more of them will then join their fortunes for vent or woe.

The friends of the two couples are legion, and the hearty expressions of good wishes for their future happiness are to be heard on every side.

The K. W. C. base ball team, of Winchester, defeated the C. U. team at that place last Saturday by a score of 19 to 13. Wood and Davis, of this city, were the battery for the K. W. C's, and acquitted themselves with credit. Davis was, as usual, very effective with the stick, while Wood carried off the honors of the day by batting out (out of five times at bat), two clean two-baggers, two one-base hits and one sacrifice. Nugent also did some pretty field work, making line throw to second base which brought out many compliments.

The K. W. C. plays State College at Winchester next Saturday.

West Lexington Presbytery.

West Lexington Presbytery convenes this (Tuesday) evening in the Southern Presbyterian Church at 7:15 o'clock. The opening sermon will be preached by Rev. W. O. Shumaker, of Jackson, Ky. The Presbyterial sermon on the doctrine of sanctification will be delivered on Wednesday evening at 7:30 by Rev. J. J. Chisholm of Winchester. Public cordially invited to attend.

A man's health is the rope by which he clings to success. If he can keep his health he will go on to success. Yet his health is the very thing he neglects more than anything else. It is easier to keep health than to regain it. When a man feels himself running down, when he realizes a loss of vitality and energy, he must ease a halt. The strands of his rope are parting rapidly. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has helped thousands of men in just this condition. It makes health, it makes purity, it makes blood, it forces out impurities and kills germs. It doesn't make any difference what name you call your trouble by—lymphemia—kidney disease—rheumatism—consumption—skin disease, the "Golden Medical Discovery" will cure it absolutely. None of those diseases can retake hold on the body when it is full of pure, rich blood.

Send 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, and receive free a copy of Dr. Pierce's Medical Advertiser. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

C. C. Freeman, Jeweler, of this city, has placed his stock in the hands of an agent of his creditors to sell from it till they shall have paid themselves the debts he owes them. Mr. D'Arey is here in behalf of the creditors and is daily holding auction sales.

The prayer meeting at the First Presbyterian church Wednesday evening will be held at 7 o'clock in order to give an opportunity to attend the services at the Southern church.

Examination and Licensure.

On Wednesday next Coleman O. Groves will stand his examination and preach his trial sermon before West Lexington Presbytery at 10:30 a.m. This will be a matter of interest to his young friends of this city. If you will present you will have an opportunity to know something of what is required in the way of attainment in a young man before he can become a licensed minister of the Presbyterian Church, South.

Samuel Salter writes from his home in Pikeville, "enclosed find my check which pays for ADVOCATE to 1897. I hope to continue a subscriber to your paper as long as it so ably advocates Democratic doctrines."

We admit that we appreciate compliments, but more so we appreciate results from our labors in strengthening Democrats and converting others to saving doctrine. Democrats must put on their armor and go to battle the enemy with a zeal of victory. Give us Democracy represented by pure men, men who are patriots, who are for the entire people and this country, the grandest in the world will be the pride of all nations.

William Graves, of New York, has filed in the District Supreme Court a petition for mandamus to compel Secretary Carlisle to deliver to him $1,500,000 of the recent issue bonds. More money in grapes and wine in the future than in any other branch of fruit growing seems probable. The country cellars are nearly all empty or engaged and vintners are looking ahead to a brisk demand and paying prices. The steadily increasing demand for vines has encouraged grape growers to plant a large acreage with resistant vines, which may amount to between 1000 and 2000 acres in this country. (George Humman, Napa Co., Cal., in American Agriculturist.)

The crew of a fishing schooner of South Thomaston, Me., got back home a few days ago after an unusually try experience, even for Maine fishermen. Their vessel was driven on a reef and the crew put off in a boat, and for eight days they were tossed about on the open sea without food and with but little water. For the first five days a heavy storm prevailed, and they were soaked through with the waves that broke over the boat. They caught enough rain water in their caps to quench their thirst partially. On the sixth day they sighted land, but before they could reach it a fresh gale sprang up and swept them out to sea again, and not until two days later were they able to reach land. They were barely alive when they got ashore.

Your Own Boss.

A young business friend recently said to me: "I'm going out of business. Think I'll study medicine. I want to be my own boss."

I smiled. It is one of the illusions of life that one's own work is slavery. When I visited Fort Russell, a cowboy drew my brother aside and said: "Well, that fellow (meaning me) has a soft job. All he has to do is to buy a $10 Bible and he is made." Many preachers would like a cowboy's job for a vacation.

The only effective way to become one's own boss, is to turn Robinson Crusoe, and he was so miserably depressed that Friday was a heaven-sent boon.

Put it down: No busy life is independent. The "independent farmer" is dependent upon wind, water and frost. The physician must buy his clothes and groceries of his patients. The lawyer waits long often for clients. The merchant is dependent upon the whims of tariff tinkers and market fluctuations. The preacher upon pews.

Some men appear to outsiders to be independent. They roll past in carriages and pay large furniture and grocery bills, but you don't know them. I met the head of one of the largest corporations in our city the other day. Seldom have I ever seen so care-worn and troubled a face. Pat with his pipe in Elysian peace beside it. Independence in one place is generally purchased by greater dependence in another.

I want to assure my young friend that if you should ever become your own boss, you would be most miserable and helpless, because without human relations. You may become "your own boss" in a true sense. It will not be from changing positions. The mind is its own place and in itself can make a heaven of hell, a hell of heaven." It will come from making your own work the fulcrum on which your life, as a lever is, to help lift the world. Every one's workshop may become a veritable paradise. He becomes his own boss, who rules himself and cheerfully performs his part in the work of the world.—Commercial Gazette.

SHORT ON GIRLS.
40,000 Marriageable Females Wanted in the Northwest.

Vancouver, B. C., April 16.—The Mayor of Vancouver has received a peculiar letter from Toronto, written in the interest of the young women in Toronto and other eastern Canadian cities.

In this unique episode the writer states that, according to statistics, there is a shortage in the female population in the Northwest territory and British Columbia, amounting to about 40,000, and there is in eastern Canada a corresponding surplus of unmarried women. In order to equalize matters it is proposed to send young women of good health and moral character West, to be distributed where the demand is greatest, and for this purpose it is sought to establish a home at Vancouver, for the reception and distribution of the young women for British Columbia.

Shortest Route to Louisville.
The distance from Lexington to Louisville has been greatly shortened by the Shelbyville "cut-off." Just completed. C. & O. trains leaving Mt. Sterling at 7:05 a. m. and 4:50 p. m. daily, reach Louisville at 11 a. m. and 8:50 p. m. (2 hours and 45 minutes). The C. & O. now has the shortest line between Mt. Sterling and Louisville, is the only line with double daily limited vestibuled train service. Frankfort and Shelbyville are the only points at which these trains stop.

Docking Lambs.
The proper way to cut lambs' tails is to hold the lamb between the legs of the operator, push the skin well up toward the root, sever the bone, and pull the skin back over the stub. By this method the lamb will bleed less, and the extra skin will help to protect the bone of the tail. (G. W. Odgen, Waupaca Co., Wis., in American Agriculturist.)

Of the Accidental Presidents.

Thirty-one years ago Andrew Johnson, elected as Vice President, became President. Twice before a President had died in office, and he who had been chosen to fill the second office was called upon to assume the responsibility of the great one.

There was John Tyler, who, a month after his election as Vice President, succeeded President Harrison. The word was coined which defined the attitude of the new President towards his party, and the brief administration of his predecessor. That word was Tylerized. How President Harrison would have ruled had he lived, is, of course, a matter of conjecture; but President Tyler's course gave deep offense to his party, and the overwhelming Whig victory of 1840 was followed by Democratic success in 1844.

Next was Millard Fillmore, called to the Presidency within less than a year and a half after his election as Vice President. He was a man of stately integrity, of conspicuous purity of character, and with considerable experience in public life, having served more than one term in Congress and having been at one time Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. He had the misfortune to succeed in a tempestuous time. He kept the peace, but he failed to catch the real significance of events in which he was so prominent an actor. He aided in no respect his party, and was the last of the Whig Presidents. In 1852 Franklin Pierce was elected over General Scott by an immense majority.

Andrew Johnson repudiated his party and his party him. The fierce passions that were engendered during his term prolonged the period of reconstruction, and gave rise to bitterness that had lasting effect. He was President for almost four years—four years lacking one month and eleven days.

Then, and last, came Arthur, successor of Garfield. Not four months had Garfield been in office when Garfield died the shot, from the effects of which death came on September 19, 1881. On the 22nd the oath of office was administered to the Vice President. So he ruled over the land for three and a half years lacking eighteen days, ruled wisely and well, and yet the opposition elected his successor.

This, in all, men chosen as Vice Presidents have held the chief office no less than thirteen years, ten months and thirteen days, or approximately one-eighth of the entire Presidential term. There have been twenty-three Presidents, one-sixth of whom have been accidental Presidents.

The great prize is the Presidency, and political as well as geographical considerations prevent the careful consideration of the second place till the first one is disposed of. There is the hurrah and hubbub incident to the success of the fortunate candidate, and less attention is paid to the second name than history or forethought would suggest should be paid.

Scientists hold to the law of averages. It was the bold dictum of Buckle that a time might come when history could be written in advance by him who had mastered the details of life. Facts are too few yet, the Presidential line is too short, to warrant the deduction of any general law. And yet the impressive lesson of history is that too much care can be used in selection of the second man on the ticket. The administration of three out of four accidental Presidents has been followed by the victory of the opposition.—Commercial Gazette.

It May Do As Much For You.
Mr. Fred Miller, of Irving, Ill., writes that he had a severe kidney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back and also that his bladder was affected. He tried many so-called kidney cures but without any good result. About a year ago he began the use of Electric Bitters and found relief at once. Electric Bitters is especially adapted to cure of all kidney and liver troubles and often gives almost instant relief. One trial will prove our statement. Price only 50 cents for large bottle. For sale at W. S. Lloyd's drugstore.

Hay For South Africa.
Chicago dealers have received inquiries for hay from Cape Town, one house there sending a sample order for clover baled timothy, with assurance that if quality and price are right, large quantities can be placed. This unusual order hints at the shortage of feed in that country. Too much stress should not be placed upon the report, as dealers frequently exploit these experimental orders beyond their merits.

Heart Disease Cured

By Dr. Miles' Heart Cure.

Fainting, Weak or Hungry Spells, Irrregular or Intermittent Pulse, Flustering or Palpitation, Choking Sensation, Shortness of Breath, Swelling of Feet and Ankles, and symptoms of a diseased or Weak Heart.

MRS. N. C. MILLER.

Of Fort Wayne, Ind., writes on Nov. 28, 1894: "I was afflicted for forty years with heart trouble and suffered untold agony. I had weak, hungry spells, and my heart would palpitate so hard, the pain would be so acute and torturing, that I became so weak and nervous I could not sleep. I was treated by several physicians without relief and gave up ever being well again. About two years ago I commenced using Dr. Miles' Remedies. One bottle of the Heart Cure stopped all heart troubles and the Restorative Nervine did the rest, and now I sleep soundly and attend to my household and social duties without any trouble. Sold by druggists. Book sent free. Address Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind. Dr. Miles' Remedies Restore Health."

Intensive Cultivation.

Intensive cultivation is necessary in berry growing, and many farmers, commencing with well cultivated berry gardens, are learning the lessons of better preparation of soil, higher fertility, and more frequent cultivation. This intensive principle, producing the best of everything, should be applied to stock raising, as well as all other products of the farm.

LUS: IN A CAVE.

He said at length, "You are a very serene companion, Mark; at least, you can be," with a little rising of the eyebrows, "but that kind of serenity is very stupid to pass one's whole life with one friend!"

"With one what?"

"With one," answered the girl, calmly unfurling her sunshade and settling more comfortably into her cushions.

The man started at her for a few seconds, then he followed her gaze to the brown sails, for a moment; then he turned to her and said, "they appeared to find some sort of surpassing interest in them."

"I think it would be very jolly to bring out Miss Armstrong one day," said his mother, "don't you?" asked the girl.

"Yes, perhaps they would like it," indifferently.

"Oh, Jack Armstrong told me yesterday that he was devoted to sailing. He wanted me to go with him—"

"Did you have a good time in town?"

"Och, Beestly hole; bores one to death."

"But there is such a lot going on now. Did you not go to any theatres?"

"Yes, to every one, music halls and so; saw everything there was to be seen. I suppose I did enjoy myself, but I have forgotten it."

The girl looked at the man steadily for a moment, but he walked moodily on, none the less of her gaze.

"Where do these people you were about? Those people you were with so much?"

"Oh, they were Irish."

A dead silence. The man and the girl stood looking at each other, each intent on his or her own thoughts.

"What charming people the Irish are as a rule," said the girl, at length.

"Yes, awfully jolly," enthusiastically.

"Where?"

"Oh, yes. They weren't bad."

"How many were there, and of what sort and condition? Do rouse yourself a little and try to be a trifle more particular."

"What shall I tell you? About the Irish people I met? Well, there was a father, also a mother—a awfully nice old lady she was—and a daughter."

"Was the daughter pretty? Irish girls are lovely, as a rule, think you?"

"Their eyes are so beautiful. Had this girl beautiful eyes?"

"Ye-es, I suppose so."

"Was she a nice girl, clever, and so on?"

"Yes, she was a nice girl, but I don't think she was anything to her."

"You said nothing to her?"

The girl laughed on more slowly. She was a little paler than she had been, but a slightly mocking smile played round the corners of her mouth.

"I don't think those brown snails look out there," she said presently, pointing to a little fleet of fishing boats far out on the glittering sea.

"Mark, I should like to go out sailing."

"Would you?" he rejoined indifferently.

"Yes. Let us go and have a nice long day. I will get some provisions while you get the boat. Snail go with me."

"I should like it if you would."

Out at sea there was a soft breeze blowing, a little breeze that made the hot sun bearable and put new life and spirits into the two in the boat.

"I don't think there was anything so exhilarating as, free so invigorating, in the very feeling of flying along over the smooth, sparkling waters."

"Shall we have lunch now?"

The girl was leaning back in a peculiarly comfortable-looking, unspeakably comfortable and very pretty. Her pink sunshade gave a delicate flush to her cheeks, which were otherwise pale.

The breeze flipped the wide brim of her hat and blew her soft hair in curls about her forehead.

The man looked round from the sail ropes he had been intent on, and an involuntary glow of admiration shone from his eyes.

"You don't look comfortable. It is a pity you should move," he said, in less melodramatic manner than he had hitherto spoken. "I will unpack the things and hand you all you want."

"My dear boy, I could not possibly eat in this position, and loath as I am to disturb myself, my spirit length for sustenance. I am going to sit in the bottom of the boat," she said, and blew her hair up some curious at my back for me!"

Emily and drolly he arranged her nest. There was something strangely fascinating in taking care of this dainty, graceful maiden.

"You must seem to be divine his feelings, for she colored a little and roused herself so as to dispense with his attentions."

"This is awfully fine," said the man, leaning back, with his hands clasped, and looking up at the sky.

First at the girl, then at the sky and then back at the girl again. "This is splendid. I could go on sailing away forever. One seems to leave all worries behind, and forget all disagree-and, planting his elbows in the leather, looked up determinedly in his companion's face. An inkling of the truth had reached his brain.

"Ruth, I must know. It is only fair that you should tell me why you are so miserable. I want to know, making me very miserable, dear."

"Ten? Oh, Mark, how can I make you unhappy?"

"Because I love you, Ruth, and I cannot bear this something that has happened to you. It drives me mad."

"Ruth, my dear little girl, don't you know how I love you, and that I want you to be something very, very much nearer than a friend?"

"But, Mark, how about that other girl, the one you don't want?"

"Don't! said the man, with a scornful sneer. "Care for her? I never did. One may flirt with a girl like that, but she is not worth caring for, making her so well, pity the poor fool who does. She fits abominably."

Then the girl smiled again, a triumphant little smile, quite unintelligible to the man. She was so successful with the treatment had been so successful, that the cure was complete.

"Why do you smile?" asked the man perplexed.

"Because—oh—because I am so happy!"

"Happy! Do you mean that?"

"Yes, catching one of her hands and kissing it passionately.

Still she looked away, intent on tearing up the unfortunate heather in the silent dismay. He could not understand her in this variable mood.

"You do not care," he said at last, when the silence had become unbearable. "You do not care, and you cannot care, my dear. I am sorry."

He returned to work, and propped himself on one elbow, with his face well away from hers.

"Don't try, dear," he went on, but the words came haltingly. "Don't try, dear, for you or do you not and I would not have."

"Mark," she said softly.

"What is it, Ruth?"

"He obeyed her, and turned a very miserable pair of eyes toward her.

"Over my mind, little woman," he said bravely. "I know you can't cure."

"You are making a mistake. I do care very, very much," she said earnestly, and leaning toward him she kissed him on the cheek.

And kissed him gently on the forehead.—Mabel Quiller-Couch in Genietyman.

Needed No Exercise.

The tall man with the stooped shoulders and a pale face had been standing for 20 minutes gazing intently at the handsome young chap who was vigorously manipulating the exerciser's home exercises in the morning room at the sporting goods store. His interest was so manifest that the proprietor sauntered outside under pretense of rearranging some of the sleds and skates which were on show in front of the store.

He stepped beside the tall man and took look at the exerciser himself.

"Great thing that," he said cheerfully. "Put one up in my own house in a month's ago, and I feel like a new man."

"Use it every day?" asked he of the bowed shoulders.

"You bet! The man who uses one once is bound to keep it up. Just the thing for a man who follows a sedentary occupation. One of those machines would straighten up your shoulders and put color in your cheeks in six weeks. Exercise is what you need, my friend. Won't you try it?"

"No, thank you, haven't got time now. I am tumbly and aerobics over here at the museum, and it's pretty near time for me to go on."

Controlling Nature.

It is the triumph of civilization that at last communities have obtained such mastery over natural laws that they drive and control them. The winds, the water, electricity, all aliens that in their wild form were dangerous, are now controlled by human will and are made useful servants.—H. W. DeGroot.

The solemn looking party paid no attention to the slanderous insinua-

"We stood spellbound for many minutes, then began to move about, going in and out among the pillars, as if in a forest. I have no idea how far they extended, for after some time, I looked about for my companions, and they were gone. I was scared in a minute and began to shout, but received no answer. Then I tried to find my way out. Half an hour later I stumbled on our guide, worse scared than I was, and he had done what the rest of us had—got lost in admiration of the beauty of

This timely inquiry relieved the pressure at once, and a vote was immediately taken that the solemn looking party pay for the drinks.—New York Sun.

Great Britain as binding, while indirect trade between neutral ports and the ports of an enemy was again allowed, but under the new proviso that the neutral ship did not on her outward voyage furnish the enemy with goods contraband of war. This privilege of indirect trade was in-privilege in America that was invaluable to American shipowners, and for two years the ocean commerce of all Europe was in their hands. The fortunes they thus accumulated were enormous, while Great Britain saw her own manufacturers displaced by those of continental nations, and the colonies of her empires prospering as never before.—Professor Schuyler in Cambridge

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

We are authorized to announce
JUDGE WM. M. BECKNER, of Clark County, as a candidate for Congress, in this, the Tenth District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce
JUDGE JOHN E. COOPER,
of Montgomery County, as a candidate for Congress in this, the Tenth District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

If the Democrats expect to get a single slice of the good things this fall there must be a dropping together of the divided wings. There are too many discordant elements in the party that seem bent upon spreading animosities still more. We cannot hope for success unless we can bring ourselves to a better state of thinking along these lines. Democrats must lay aside personal prejudice and personal spite and be willing to accept the man the majority say is the best the party has to select for the position to be filled. It is quite true that there arise times when county, district, and state lines should be forgotten and in order to select the best man we should go away from home to find him. At the same time we should be very sure we are not being blinded by mere personal likes and dislikes in this matter. No Democrat is to be blamed for antagonizing "a home man" if he has honestly weighed his fitness for the position and found him wanting. But in doing this we should be very sure our reason for refusing support to such a man is one we can present at the bar of our own self-respect and find an acquittal from conscience. If we are going to elect this fall it will take a united party to go to the polls. The losses we had last fall should have taught us some things. Unless we get together a nomination is not only a costly but an empty honor.

Since the announcement of Judge John E. Cooper's candidacy for Congress, the many friends of Mr. M. S. Taylor have been urging him to become a candidate for Circuit Judge of this district, in the event of a vacancy in said office by reason of Judge Cooper securing the Congressional nomination. While it would hardly be proper for him to formally announce himself a candidate just now, yet we feel confident that Mr. Taylor will not be able to resist the urgent demand of his friends to permit his name in connection with said office at the proper time, either in the event of a vacancy as suggested or at the end of Judge Cooper's term.

McKinley vs. The Field.

Revised figures as to the delegate votes instructed for each of the candidates for the Republican presidential nomination show that up to date Mr. McKinley has 318, Read 90, Morton 65, Allison 35, Gray 38, Bradley 16, Cullum 12. Twenty-one other votes are in doubt, making a total of 638 delegate votes selected—about two-thirds of the entire number. The McKinley men claim more delegates than are given him in this estimate. His managers say that he has 370 votes, and that he will get Ohio and Indiana also. They are also preparing to make a hard fight against Cullum in the Illinois convention, which meets April 28—Courier-Journal.

Hon. Jo M. Kendall, member of Congress, a weekly reader of the Advocate says of us: "I commend your conservative course on the political issue. It is Democratic. There are both gold and silver cranks."

We repeat what we have before said, we are for our party and will stand by and work with the majority. The party is greater than the man and so long as we believe the principles of the Democratic party are for the interests of the people we will be found in line not as nominal Democrats but as workers. The party must work in harmony or Republicans will gain the National Administration and the same extravagance of former years will be resorted to and this government will be made to suffer more than now. That the Republican party is responsible for the financial depression no intelligent man can be Democrat, Republican or Independent can deny and maintain. The heavy expenditures and class legislature of today have grown out of the Republican administration and the remedy for these evils must come from the Democratic party.

Gov Bradley's back in Frankfort after a week's continuous absence at Louisville and elsewhere.

To the Democrats of the Tenth Congressional District:

When I announced my candidacy for Congress some time ago, I had every expectation that in spite of a general condition of ill-health to which I am not accustomed, I would soon be able to see you in your respective counties, and give you my reasons why I sought the nomination at your hands at this time.

Since that announcement, however, my illness has suddenly assumed a more serious form—so serious, indeed, that I am not only physically incapacitated from making a canvass of the district, but my physician tells me that if persisted in it can only be at the risk of dangerous and probably fatal results to my life in the end. Hence, nothing is left me but reluctantly to announce, my withdrawal from the contest.

To my many friends throughout the district who have given me such cheering assurances of their friendship and support, I desire to return, to one and to all, my profound and grateful thanks, and to express to them the hope that after a short season of rest and recuperation I may be able to see and more fully thank them in person for the cordial consideration which they have always so generously accorded me.

JOHN E. COOPER.

Charged With Horse Stealing.

For some time past horse owners of this and several surrounding counties have been suffering at the hands of horse thieves. Although officers have been on the trail of these offenders they have not been able to secure evidence sufficient to warrant an arrest till now. For several days officials have been trying to arrest two young men Ed and Will Henry, sons of Pat Henry, a well-to-do and respectable farmer of Nicholas county. On Sunday Will Henry was arrested near Elizaville in Fleming county and placed in jail at Carlisle. The young men are respectively connected and their conduct is a source of great grief to those connected with them by blood. Ed Henry has not been arrested at this writing.

Horse Show.

The stallion show which occurs annually on April court day took place to-day. There was only eight stallions shown and a very small crowd went to the show ring. Dr. McKinley, of Paris, Ky., had Bourbon Kassel, John T. Woodford had Forest-Denmark, A. G. Jones, of Northland, had Highland Chief, John B. Miller, of Clark county, had Black Boy, Wyatt & Johnson had Bourbon Chief and Montgomery Sparer, Miller, of Clark county, had King Denmark, Hagan & Wilson had their saddle stallion, Black King, and their fine mule Jack, Paris.

The protracted meeting at the Methodist church closed with the three o'clock service on Friday. Rev. J. O. A. Vaughn preached each day for eleven days, and Dr. W. T. Bolling, five days. The people of Mt. Sterling heard preaching of a high order from both these gentlemen—such preaching as would become any pulpiter in the land. Dr. Bolling captivated Mt. Sterling by his splendid oratory, as Mr. Vaughn had done by his superior preaching. Much good was done during the continuance of these meetings. There were twenty-two conversions.

Baptist Church.

Pastor Gill preached morning and evening to large congregations. An abounding interest was manifested at both services. Four additions at the morning service and one at the evening service. Seven persons baptized and received into the church. Baptismal service next Sunday evening at 7:30.

James H. Evans, of Winchester, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Evans, who is a candidate for County Judge of Clark county, is a leader of the first rank and the enthusiastic following his candidacy has already developed indicates very plainly that the next man who occupies the wool sack in the County Judges' office of Clark will be named Evans.

Death of James Turley.

Mr. James Turley, aged 84 years, died at his home one mile South of this city at 12 in yesterday, April 20, of heart failure. Mr. Turley was one of the old land marks of our county, his whole life having been passed here. To the upbuilding of the county he gave the enthusiasm of his youth, the strength of his manhood and the wisdom of his maturer years. He has been active in the business here for more than 65 years. As a farmer and trader and as a merchant, always doing business on an extensive scale, he came in contact with a wide circle of people. From 1863 to 1873 he and J. D. Hazlrigg, of this city, were in partnership, conducting a dry goods business on an extensive scale. In his long business career he experienced disasters as well as successes, but whether success or failure stared him in the face, he never lost his courage or determination to carry his plans to a successful issue. He died possessed of a large share of this world's goods.

Mr. Turley did not coquet himself with any church till he had gone far toward the evening of life, but some twelve years ago he made a profession of religion and connected himself with the Christian church, giving to his Master the faithful service of his declining years.

More than fifty years ago he was married to Miss Julia Davis who survives him together with three sons Amos and Samuel residing in this county and Zachariah, of Chicago, and Mrs. Henrietta Orear, of this city. The funeral service will be held tomorrow morning at ten o'clock at the Christian church in this city. Rev. H. D. Clark assisted by Rev. W. T. Tibbs will conduct the service.

April Court Day.

April Court-day was hot and dry which affected the sale very much. There was between five and six hundred cattle on the market with no good cattle for sale. Trade was dull and cattle were slow to dispose of. Some 800th steers sold at 34. Yearlings at about same price. Cows and heifers at from $2 to $2.75. Bulls and stags at $1.75 to 2.25. There was quite a number of cattle that were not sold.

SALES.

Blevins & Williams sold a lot of 350th heifers at $2.60; Salyers & Gardner sold twenty 500th heifers at $2.70; J. M. Rose sold a lot of heifers to a Bath county party at about $2.75; he also sold some 700th steers at 24; J. C. Lewis, of this county, bought some 800th steers at 34; Salyers & Co. sold to Mr. Nobis, of Nicholas county, a lot of heifers at $2.80; O. H. Downing, of Menfess county, sold thirteen 600th heifers to Mr. Craig, of Bourbon county, at $2.25; Lyons & Sample sold twelve 600th heifers at 24c.

BUSINESS AND MARKS.

No miles of any consequence for sale. There was some demand for large mules but none on the market. There was several horse buyers looking for some good horses but few sales were made. Mr. Jewell, of Mt. Hope, Va., wanted some minding mules but he bought only three or four head; Mr. Beard, of Carothers & Beard, Lexington, Ky., also wanted some large mules but did not bid anything to suit him. Horse men were Mr. Nichols, W. W. Adams, A. L. Harrison, all of Lexington, and T. J. Davis, of Winchester.

ASTUPENDOUS COMBINE.

The Great Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers Enormous Shows United.

"Mr. J. A. Bailey, sole owner of the 'Adam Forepaugh Shows,' has just arranged with Messrs. Epfrain, Lewis, and Peter Sells, by which the show owned by the latter and known as 'Sells Brothers Enormous Railroad Shows' is consolidated with the Forepaugh Show, thus making the new show one of the largest and most powerful in the world. The combination thus effected will have great influence upon every In the country, except the Barnum & Bailey 'Greatest Show on Earth,' owned solely by J. A. Bailey, and the Buffalo Bill Wild West Show in which Mr. Bailey has a joint interest. Under the new arrangement all the cages, cars, horses and the menageries, material and paraphernalia of the Forepaugh Show will now be added to the already big show of the Sells Brothers."

The result must be a most extraordinary and sensational success from every standpoint, and such it will doubtless prove in Mt. Sterling on Thursday, April 30, when the new combination of America's greatest shows makes its first appearance in this vicinity. Each has always attracted big patronage, and the pull of the two united should draw tremendously from both far and near.

Nanz & Neuner, Florists of Louisville, are out in a much improved enlarged catalogue and are better prepared to cater to the wants of flower lovers than ever before.
